New Plan
To Fight
The Rats

PRESIDENT PINKHAM HOPES TO PRODUCE AN EPIDEMIC AMONG THEM.

President Pinkham of the Board of Health is investigating the chances of engaging in a new kind of campaign against rats, which will be an effort to introduce a disease among them and bring about a heavy death rate, independent of the poison and trap campaign now being carried on. For years the Board of Health has kept in use all the traps the available force could handle, and has used various kinds of poison, thus keeping down the rat population to a considerable extent.

The new plan is a result of experiments made by the federal government, and it is hoped that a supply of the necessary drug can be obtained from Washington. It is a food which the rats are supposed to eat readily, and it produces in them a very contagious disease, of which rats alone are victims. The sick ones do not die so quickly but that they have time to spread the trouble. It is thought likely that the scheme will prove of much value, but there is no certainty till tests have been made.

By poisoning and the construction of rat-proof wharves the water-front has been practically freed from the pests. They are very plentiful in many residence districts, however, and there are numerous complaints regarding their presence in garrets.
